EARTH STEWARDSHIP

Bi Annual Report
2020 - 2022

Mission

We honor the Creator by living and testifying of gospel principles of earth stewardship.

Purpose

LDS Earth Stewardship is a nonprofit organization united by the belief that earth stewardship is a gospel principle, and gathered for the purpose of exploring and promoting that principle.

Goals

-  Increase public awareness and understanding of principles of earth stewardship based on the doctrines, publications, teachings, and history of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.
-  Develop and disseminate educational materials and information for a Latter-day Saint audience and for the general public.
-  Sponsor activities, service projects, workshops, conferences, contests, research and programs that promote understanding and practice of earth stewardship.
-  Engage stakeholders from diverse geographic, cultural, and political backgrounds to address resource and environmental challenges using shared principles of stewardship to identify and implement consensus solutions.
-  Provide supportive community, social and fellowship opportunities.
-  Publicize, celebrate, and promote the exemplary earth stewardship initiatives of the Church and its individual members in energy efficiency, water conservation, pollution reduction, public health, biological diversity, sustainability, and land use.

Online Presentations

In the Company of Stewards

In the Company of Stewards meetings hearken back to how a company of pioneers would circle their wagons for the night and gather together for uplifting and constructive conversation. These monthly virtual meetings began in 2020 and provide Latter-day Saint earth stewards across the world with community, knowledge, and inspiration to support them on their journey of caring for Creation. Each presentation can be found on our YouTube channel.

What Is Stewardship?

Hymn We Give Thee But Thine Own, Hymn 218

D&C104:13-15 "For it is expedient that I, the Lord, should make every man accountable, as a steward over earthly blessings, which I have made and prepared for my creatures. I, the Lord, stretched out the heavens, and built the earth, my very handiwork; and all things therein are mine. And it is my purpose to provide for my saints, for all things are mine."

Corinthians 4:2 "Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful."

Spencer W. Kimball "We are stewards over our bodies, minds, families, and properties. ...A faithful steward is one who exercises righteous dominion, cares for his own, and looks to the poor and needy."

Ezra Taft Benson "Stewardship in the Church is a very important matter. The Lord has mentioned it in the revelations. (See D&C 59; 104.) We are stewards over these earthly blessings which the Lord has provided, those of us who have this soil and this water. We have no moral latitude, it seems to me. In fact, we are morally

Stewardship

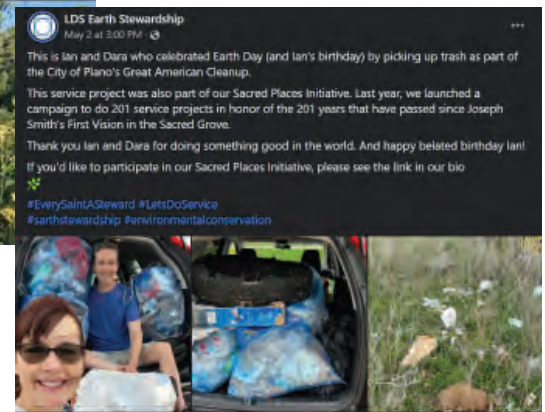

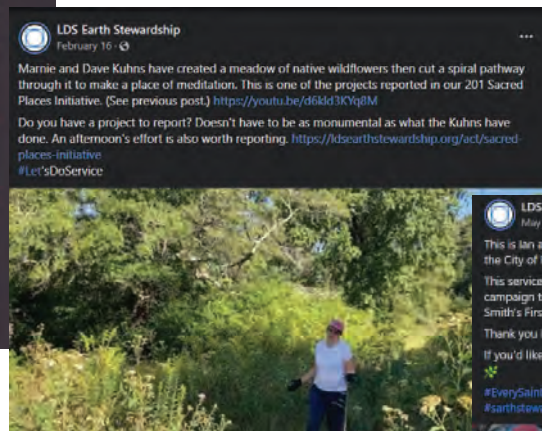

Local and International Chapters

We believe that inspiring people to make a difference in their own community is one of the best ways we can increase efforts and make lasting change.

In 2021, we expanded support and sponsorship of community-based environmental education and stewardship projects through local chapters. We grew from one to six groups in the United States and added three international groups. We offer small grants for projects hosted by these groups. Our goal is to add five additional groups by the end of 2022.

Sacred Places Initiative

More than two hundred years ago, Joseph Smith made his way into a forest near his home to seek clarity and had a vision that was the basis for the later founding of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Particularly through the pandemic, many of us have found our own sacred places near our homes that have given us peace, clarity, gratitude, and rejuvenation.

Over the past two years, many of us have learned to navigate the pandemic. In many places around the world, the vaccination has made it safer for people to gather. As we look forward, we have called on Latter-day Saints to join us and hold inspired service projects, focusing on sacred places near them.

Events

Fall Forums

Sister Sharon Eubank returned to speak with us in 2020. She offered unique perspectives on earth stewardship. Her role at LDS Charities takes her around the world where she sees the hurt caused by resource disparity.

“It’s significant to me that the one of the names of Jesus Christ is Emmanuel, which means ‘God with us.’..So I really resonate to that idea that His DNA, His expressive essence, is in everything that He has created so that He is with us as we experience the world that He made for us.”

Dr. Paul Alan Cox joined us in 2021 to present “Conservation and Reverence for the Earth”. Dr. Cox was awarded the Goldman Environmental Prize, sometimes known as the Nobel Prize of the Environment and his conservation foundation, Seacology, has set aside over 1.5 million acres of rainforest and coral reef in 60 countries around the world.

“Reverence for the earth is taught both in scripture and in the temples. Care for the planet and compassion for the plants and animals we share it with can become an act of worship if we explicitly acknowledge the Creator and our contingency as stewards of His masterpiece. Modern revelation reaffirms our responsibilities to protect and care for the creation.”

Collaboration

In 2021 and 2022 we collaborated with Mormon Women for Ethical Government, Mormon Environmental Stewardship Alliance and Citizens Climate Lobby to amplify stewardship.

Sustainability

LDS Earth Stewardship operates an efficient budget. Staff also operates from home, reducing carbon emissions and commuting costs.

At times over the past two years, LDS Earth Stewardship has been managed by one staff member. Currently, the organization employs three part-time staff members and has ten board members. We recruit interns for special projects and have created a volunteer program that can utilize over 150 volunteer roles.

We are grateful to our many individual donors and company match programs. Our most heartfelt gratitude goes to The Nature Conservancy, our largest source of sustainability. Without their support, much of the work in this report could not have been accomplished.
